

Michael DiPaula-Coyle, Director, Policy Advocacy U.S.-India Business Council to appear on The Neal Asbury Show the week of October 1st.

Michael DiPaula-Coyle serves as Director at the U.S.-India Business Council. In that role, he acts as Deputy to President Ron Somers and oversees a broad management and policy portfolio, including digital economy, insurance and pensions, and media and entertainment.

Prior to joining USIBC, Michael served as Chief of Staff at the International Trade Administration in the U.S. Department of Commerce. In that role he served as the Under Secretary's senior staff member, political advisor, and speechwriter and as a member of the senior management team leading an agency with 2,200 employees with operations in the United States and in 77 countries.

Prior to that, Michael was a Special Assistant and Policy Advisor at the Bureau of Industry and Security, where he helped develop, coordinate and implement national security policies regarding high-technology trade and dual-use export controls.

He served as the lead U.S. Government policy coordinator for the U.S.-India High Technology Cooperation Group, a bilateral high-technology and nonproliferation dialogue which helped lead to a strengthening of the Indian export control system, enhanced bilateral non-proliferation cooperation, and increased high-technology and defense exports to India. He also participated in executive branch reform of the U.S. dual-use export control system.

Michael received his undergraduate degree from the University of St. Andrews, Scotland, and his Master's Degree from King's College, London.
